LOCAL NEWS.

Up to four o'clock this morning the Zealandia was not sighted.

The "tars" of the Constance state that Honolulu is the most hospitable and courteous place they ever anchored at.

The attention of the Road Supervisor is respectfully but earnestly called to the condition of Kukui Lane and other by-roads in Honolulu.

Captain Dhooty and the officers of the Constance after the band concert attended the entertainment tendered by the Choral Quintette Club.

The Y. M. C. A. Geometry Class will meet to-night at half-past seven o'clock. All members desiring to continue in the class are requested to be present.

A bark was seen off Waialua yesterday morning at half-past ten. The name could not be ascertained. The vessel is expected to arrive in this harbor to-day.

The Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor, of the Fort Street Church, will meet this evening at half past seven o'clock at Mrs. Dickson's residence on Beretania street.

Major J. Wodehouse, British Commissioner, visited the Constance yesterday. He was received by Captain Poughy with a guard of Raw Marines, and at his departure a formal salute was fired.

His Majesty, the King, has sent an invitation to the officers of the Constance to attend the Church services and drill Saturday. Also to partake of the pleasures of a luau, to be held at his palace in the evening.

Evidently this place is not at all wanting in cripples. Last evening three of the Honolulu gentry were seen trudging up Fort street all limping. Two with canes and the other walked as if a stick would not go amiss with him.

There are so many nuisances in Chinatown that the sidewalks there are becoming a matter of secondary consideration; slops emptied into the streets and especially into Nuuanu street call forth the loudest objections just at present.

Yesterday afternoon two natives had a little dispute on Beretania street about the possession of three taro plants; while they were filling the air with vowels a native woman, who came along, took in the situation at a glance and walked off with taro basket and all.

A runaway occurred at about half past two yesterday afternoon, on the Waikiki road. The horses became started at something lying in the road and off they went, running about a mile before the driver could get them under control. No damage was done.

Some of the British sailors had a merry time at the Band Concert last night dancing in front of the stand to the heel-inspiring notes of Mr. Berger's boys. Some of the unkind by-standers remarked that "they were all legs."

Lookout boys, such criticisms have two meanings.

The band gave their advertised concert in honor of the Officers of the Constance last evening at the Hotel. The concert served as an enjoyable treat to all present. The new piece, "Grand National Fantasia" by Rappley, was very well delivered and much appreciated.

Yesterday evening at half-past eight o'clock two young native girls, at about ten and fourteen years of age respectively were noticed lying on a wheelbarrow fast a sleep near the Commercial Saloon on Nuuanu street. No wonder the native race is dying out, such carelessness would soon kill grown people.

The yacht Sarah belonging to Mr. M. Phillips, became stranded on the other side of the channel Wednesday night. She is at present filled with water. Some natives went out to her yesterday and made a raft of air-tight barrels with the intention of raising her out of the water. She is expected to be afloat again in a few days.

The hackmen have made several attempts to form a protective union, but owing to the want of interest and non-benefit of those who would be most benefitted by such a society, the movement is liable to fall through, and the drivers will still be victimized by dead-heads and those who make a practice of not paying their debts.

The reception tendered last evening at the Gymnasium by the Choral and Quintette Club of Honolulu to their friends was a most brilliant success. The entertainment commenced at eight o'clock, and sometime before that every seat was occupied by a select and expectant gathering. All the numbers received well deserved applause, but owing to the length of the programme no encores were given. By request Professor Yarnley gave a violin solo that charmed the sympathies of all. The professor must have reserved his real forces until last evening, as his violin solo impressed everyone that they were listening to some of the Old Masters, and served to confirm the already high opinion held regarding his musical abilities. The duet, "Children Pray This Love to Cherish," sung by Mrs. Hanford and Mrs. Brown; the violin obligato, "Santa Maria" by Faure, delivered by Mrs. Hanford and Prof. Yarnley; "Serenata" by Costa, sung by the Choral Club, and the flute solo "Romance Italienne" by Terschak, played by Mr. W. C. Morse, deserve more than passing notice, and the whole programme reflects most favorably on the exertions of Professor Yarnley. The solo of Mr. Morse was especially noticed for its perfect rendition. The entire programme was one of exquisite harmony such as is rarely heard here. After the musical programme was ended, dancing was inaugurated. Refreshments were also served that helped materially to make this Thanksgiving day one to be looked back upon, by those present, as one of the pleasant past remembrances of Honolulu life.

They say: that the last two Administrations are the worst Hawaii ever had; that the theory of "the survival of the fittest" is politically out of date in these Islands; that the "snake dance" of the American Indians is to be revived in Hawaii by a halohu dance (to be privately given); that the Thanksgiving sermon, preached by Pastor Cruzan yesterday, was a whole-souled and patriotic effort; that Professor Yarnley's chorus is worthy of imitation; that somehow the "Star Spangled Banner" got sandwiched between "God Save the Queen" and "Hawaii Ponoi" at the concert given to the British officers last night; that the first fruits of the coming political contest will be native disgust for the new promises of the old Administration; that the latest philopina present given by the young ladies of Honolulu is a book of pressed ferns; that the most fashionable mode of address in Honolulu with strangers is allo-you-ney; that table scarfs are coming into fashion among the Honolulu girls; that "Love in a Taro Patch" will be the title of the next original poem published in the Advertiser; that the entertainment given at the Gymnasium last night was one of the most enjoyable affairs; that the singing under the direction of Professor Yarnley was the chief feature of the evening; that the Post Office club is to be reorganized before long; that it will, in the future, be of a political as well as of a literary cast; that the Fort and Hotel street boys intend organizing a dog show this winter; that they will exhibit several political cuts who hit the heels of respectable citizens; that the British sailors are behaving like little men this time; that some naturally pleasant people in Honolulu make a bore of themselves by giving their opinions of "what should be"; that genial Henry Hart's smiling face while serving the refreshments at the Choral Clubs reception last night, made the good things taste better; and that Honolulu has lyric artists that could give the people an excellent treat.

Now that the regatta is over and the different rowing clubs have ceased making faces at each other, the poor abused scribe has a hard job to find items. Two accommodating individuals recognizing this fact, by mutual generous impulses attempted to make news. Their efforts indicated that they were in earnest. They even went so far as to cause the sun to turn red.

Their most glorious achievement took place at about half-past one yesterday afternoon in the Astor House restaurant. At that time two ravenous looking representatives of humanity entered the restaurant to satisfy their hungry longings and to discuss affairs of State. After they had torn the present Government affairs to pieces, and made the moon give light at day in place of the sun, they at last attacked the militia and the competitive drill. One of the party belonged to that brave and loyal band of veterans known as the Honolulu Rifles, and praised and sung of them, as yet unknown, valor. The notes came from a very high scale and evidently were discordant with his companion's idea of "what is," and he expressed his contempt for those men of soldierly bearing, those men of valiant deeds, those men whose very looks tell the observer that they "might surrender, but never die," and whose martial array inspires one with a patriotism that which only they can inspire. Ah, ha! you desperate youth, care you not for your body, did you not consider whom you were addressing. If not then know that you are lost—it was one of the Rifles. But to continue the tale of woe. The soldier, man looked down with pity upon the misled youth, but his honor, his name was at stake, so discarding altogether the soldier's mode of warfare, he reached out his left fist that came in contact with the other's right optic in a way that showed the genius of generalship. Another attack caused his now thoroughly aroused adversary to make some show of battle, and away they charged. "Shorty" evidently trying to reach heaven while "Longy" was attempting to hit the "tother" place. Fists flew with lightning rapidity, and sometimes Shorty's feet were where the head ought to be. The bloody gore of conflict was spilt, and although both the now infuriated contestants put the spectators in mind of deceased Love no attempt was made to stop the fight. They finally stopped themselves. Such is the results occasioned by the long and short of a matter coming in contact with each other.
